TO ALL PARTIES AND THEIR ATTORNEYS OF RECORD:

Please take notice that on June 2, 2008, at 10:30 a.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard in Courtroom 1 of the above-referenced court located at 880 Front St., Rm. 4290, San Diego, CA 92101, Defendants Eric Anderson, M.D. and Fremont Emergency Services, Inc. ("Defendants") will move this Court to dismiss the first cause of action of Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint ("FAC") for failure to state a claim for violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1395dd et al, the Emergency Medical Treatment and Active labor Act ("EMTALA") as against Defendants. Said Motion to Dismiss is made on the following grounds:

The first cause of action against Defendants for violation of EMTALA fails to state a valid claim pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) as Plaintiff fails to plead the sufficient facts which gives rise to a cause of action for violation of EMTALA against Defendants. This Motion to Dismiss will be based upon this Notice, the attached Memorandum of Points and Authorities, all exhibits attached hereto, the Declaration of Janice Eckes, Esq. filed concurrently herewith, all pleadings and records on file herein, as well as upon such further oral and documentary evidence which may be presented at the time of the hearing on this Motion to Dismiss.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO DISMISS

I.

INTRODUCTION

This action involves allegations of medical malpractice. Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint ("FAC") contains two causes of action as against Defendants Eric Anderson, M.D. ("Dr. Anderson") and Fremont Emergency Services, Inc. ("Fremont"): first cause of action for violation of the Emergency Medical Treatment and Active Labor Act ("EMTALA") and second cause of action for medical negligence. (Exhibit A: FAC.)

Plaintiff alleges she was injured after a fall and subsequently presented at Mountain View Hospital and Freemont. (Exhibit A: FAC, ¶¶ 29, 30.) Plaintiff alleges that Defendants Dr. Anderson and Fremont failed to properly exercise the proper degree of knowledge and skill in examining, diagnosing, treating, and caring for Plaintiff's severe fracture of the right shoulder, which resulted in further injuries. (Exhibit A: FAC, ¶ 22.) Plaintiff further alleges that Dr. Anderson advised her that she would be placed in a sling and given pain killers, but refused Plaintiff when she requested she be seen by an orthopedic specialist immediately. (Exhibit A: FAC, ¶ 16.) Plaintiff also alleges that Dr. Anderson failed to stabilize Plaintiff before forcing Plaintiff to be transferred to San Diego without arranging for or providing any medical transportation. (Exhibit A: FAC, ¶ 17.)

A review of Plaintiff's FAC reveals that Plaintiff's first cause of action against Defendants Dr. Anderson and Fremont for violation of EMTALA fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. Plaintiff fails to allege sufficient facts to state a cause of action for violation of EMTALA. Moreover, the defects in the EMTALA claim are of such a nature that even if Plaintiff is given leave to amend, Plaintiff will not be able to properly plead that cause of action. Therefore, Plaintiff's claim for violation of EMTALA as against Defendants Dr. Anderson and Fremont alleged in her first cause of action must be dismissed without leave to amend.

II.

PLAINTIFF'S CLAIM FOR VIOLATION OF EMTALA FAILS TO STATE A CLAIM UPON WHICH RELIEF CAN BE GRANTED

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12, subd. (b) (6), a claim may be dismissed if it does not "state a claim upon which relief can be granted." Dismissal is proper where there is no cognizable legal theory or an absence of sufficient facts alleged to support a cognizable legal theory. Navarro v. Block (2001) 250 F.3d 729, 732. A plaintiff's complaint is liberally construed when considering a motion to dismiss and allegation of material facts are taken as true. Sprewell v. Golden State Warriors (2001) 266 F.3d 979, 988. However, the Court is not required to accept as true any conclusory allegations of law, unwarranted deductions of fact, or unreasonable inferences, and such allegations are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss. Id. Plaintiff must plead sufficient facts to show that the she may be entitled to some relief. Austin v. Terhune (2004) 367 F.3d 1167, 1171.

EMTALA imposes two duties on hospital emergency rooms: (1) a duty to screen a patient for an emergency condition, and (2) once an emergency condition is found, a duty to stabilize the patient before transferring or discharging him. 42 U.S.C. § 1395 dd; Baker v. Adventist Health, Inc. (2001) 260 F.3d 987, 992. This statute was created to respond to the specific problem of hospital emergency rooms refusing to treat patients who were uninsured or unable to pay for treatment. Baker, supra, 260 F.3d 987 at p.994. The statute was "not intended to create a national standard of care for hospitals or to provide a federal cause of action akin to a state law claim for medical malpractice." Id.

The Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit recognized that the "plain text of EMTALA explicitly limits a private right of action to the participating hospital." Eberhardt v. City of Los Angeles (1995) 62 F.3d 1253, 1256. Furthermore, a review of the legislative history of EMTALA "evince[d] a clear Congressional intent to bar individuals from pursuing civil actions against physicians." Id. Therefore, EMTALA does not provide a cause of action against physicians. Id. In Eberhardt, the Ninth Circuit highlighted the fact that this holding was consistent with every appellate court that had addressed this issue. Id.

In Jackson v. East Bay Hospital (2001) 246 F.3d 1248, the Ninth Circuit held that a medical group that provided administrative, purchasing and financial services to a hospital was not a hospital under EMTALA. Therefore, the Court held that EMTALA did not apply to the medical groups. Id. at p. 1260. Likewise in Burrows v. Burrows v. Redbud Cmty. Hosp. Dist. (2002) 34 Fed. Appx. 363, the Ninth Circuit held that an entity which provided physician staffing services to a hospital was neither a hospital or health facility for purposes of liability under EMTALA.

In the present case, Plaintiff's first cause of action contains a claim for violation of EMTALA as against Defendants Dr. Anderson and Fremont. (FAC.) Plaintiff alleges that Dr. Anderson and Freemont violated EMTALA by refusing to treat Plaintiff, refusing to request an immediate orthopedic specialist consult, refusing to and failing to stabilize Plaintiff's injuries and forcing Plaintiff's improper transfer to San Diego, and failing to provide medical transportation and refusing to properly care for Plaintiff. (Exhibit A: FAC, ¶ 33.) Plaintiff alleges that Dr. Anderson violated EMTALA by failing to provide necessary and proper medical care for Plaintiff's condition to which she was owed a duty. (Exhibit A: FAC, ¶ 34.) In addition, Plaintiff alleges that Freemont is a licensed medical facility. (Exhibit A: FAC, ¶ 26.) Plaintiff further alleges that the acts of Defendants Dr. Anderson and Freemont caused Plaintiff to suffer loss of use of her arm, impairment of enjoyment of life, significant pain and discomfort, emotional distress, and future medical costs and expenses. (Exhibit A: FAC, ¶ 35.)

However, Plaintiff fails to plead facts sufficient to state a claim for violation of EMTALA. A claim for violation of EMTALA may only be brought against hospitals, not physicians or medical groups. As such, Plaintiff is barred from bringing a claim for violation of EMTALA against Defendants Dr. Anderson and Fremont. At all relevant times, Fremont was not the participating hospital which treated and cared for Plaintiff; rather, Fremont was a medical group that contracted with hospitals to provide physician staffing to emergency departments. (Declaration of Janice Eckes, ¶ 3.) Further, at all relevant times, Dr. Anderson was a physician employed by Fremont. (Declaration of Janice Eckes, ¶ 3.) Plaintiff's factual allegations against Defendants Dr. Anderson and Fremont fail to state a claim for violation of EMTALA because Plaintiff cannot allege a claim for violation of EMTALA against physicians or medical groups.

As such, Plaintiff's claim that Dr. Anderson, a physician, and Fremont, a medical group which does not function as a hospital, violated EMTALA must fail.

Moreover, even if Plaintiff is given the opportunity to amend the FAC, Plaintiff will still be barred from bringing a claim for violation of EMTALA against Dr. Anderson and Fremont, as neither were a hospital at the time at the incident. Based upon the foregoing, Plaintiff's claim for violation of EMTALA stated in her first cause of action of the FAC must be dismissed without leave to amend.

III.

CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, Defendants Eric Anderson, M.D. and Fremont Emergency Services, Inc. respectfully requests that this Court dismiss Plaintiff's claim for violation of EMTALA of Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint without leave to amend, along with any and all other relief this Court deems necessary and proper.
